

Randomization of Outcome Questions (Conative Attitudes)

Within each pair, we keep the order of the options. This means, for IPV

Good vs. Bad
Bad vs. Good
Good vs. Bad
Bad vs. Good

For IPV version 1 we thus have:

A vs. E
F vs. B
C vs. G
H vs. D

Likewise, for abortion:

Bad vs. Good
Good vs. Bad
Bad vs. Good
Good vs. Bad

And for absenteeism:

Bad vs. Good

Parents

IPV

Suppose you visit your cousin and she tells you that her husband beat her severely and asks you for help. Suppose there are only two actions that you can take. Please tell us which one you would prefer to take.

Version 1
A) I would accompany her to the police to report the incident.	E) I would calm her down and tell her that the situation is bound to get better

B) I would get the LC1 chairperson involved (if 2.12 = “You are an LC1 chairperson: I would get involved to mediate the dispute in my role as the LC1 chairperson)	F) I would express my sympathy for her but would tell her that every couple has to work it out for themselves
C) I would talk to her parents and ask them to come by to help the couple find a peaceful solution	G) I would advise her to try harder to please her husband and things will likely improve
D) I would notify the Nabakyala and ask her to mediate the dispute.	H) I would tell her that beating is often a sign of love and that she should try to work it out with her husband

Abortion

Imagine that a niece from another village is staying with you in order to attend school. And imagine you come home and find her sick. She confides to you that she had a deliberate abortion and is scared about what will happen if others find out. Suppose there are only two actions that you can take. Please tell us which one you would prefer to take.

Version 1
------------------	--

A) I would get the VHT to counsel her even though the VHT may not have any medicine that would help	C) Before doing anything else, I would scold her for having sinned.
B) The first thing I would do is take her to the doctor	D) I would advise her to pray and urge her to get advice from her religious leader
Version 2

Teacher Absenteeism

In some of the villages we have visited, teachers miss many days or weeks of class when they should be teaching. Imagine that you find out that your child's teacher has been absent for 2 days this week during teaching hours. Suppose there are only two actions that you can take. Please tell us which one you would prefer to take.

Version 1
A) Tell the LC1 chairperson to investigate why the headmaster has allowed this problem to occur	E) find a tutor to instruct your child until the teacher comes back
B) immediately begin organizing a PTA meeting, even if you know this might start some trouble	F) wait another few days to see if the problem corrects itself
C) bring it up in the village meeting	G) ask the headmaster to put your child into a different classroom until the teacher returns
D) assemble a group of parents and confront the teacher	H) send your child to a school in the neighboring village, where the teachers always come to class
